

Although you can noodle a floor plan for months, there is really only so much you can do with a small box
 Start with the majors then work toward the minors.
 Some majors are:
 Outside and inside dimensions, Which direction is the front, The fender size and location, Which way the roof slopes, Draw up the outline with wall thickness and fenders, make several copies and start playing.
 If there are two of you working on this project, each take a separate sheet, after you have gone around some options a couple times, take a clean copy and start to blend your ideas together.
